Professionalism is an integral part of health care delivery and is an expectation for all health care professionals. Recent social and cultural changes have presented new challenges to professionalism in clinical practice settings. This workshop will focus on the values and behaviors associated with professionalism in various health disciplines. Some of the methods used to teach and assess professionalism will be explored.

Objectives:

- ❖ to describe and define professionalism as it relates to health care disciplines
- ❖ to identify the values and behaviors associated with professionalism in health care
- ❖ to discuss some methods for assessment of professionalism
- ❖ to discuss some methods for teaching professionalism
