The Division of Geriatric Medicine at McMaster University is seeking two…

ACADEMIC GERIATRICIANS

The successful candidate(s) will provide clinical activities within Hamilton Health Sciences Centre (HHSC), which will include working on an in-patient Geriatric Rehabilitation Unit, the in-patient geriatric consultation service, and out-patient geriatric clinics. There is also an opportunity to participate in outreach consultation as well. Demonstrated capabilities in teaching, or clinical research are highly desirable.

Candidates will have or be eligible for Ontario licensure, hold specialty certification in Internal Medicine, and will have or be eligible for the certificate of special competence in Geriatric Medicine from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

The Division of Geriatric Medicine at McMaster University currently includes a collegial group of nine Geriatricians along with other affiliated physicians. The Hamilton Health Sciences Corporation is one of the largest comprehensive academic health sciences centres in all of Canada. Hamilton Ontario, located at the east end of Lake Ontario is the third largest city in Ontario. Known as the City of Waterfalls, Hamilton is in the process of reinventing itself from being primarily a steel town into a healthcare and academic powerhouse.

Interested applicants should send their CV to: Dr. Sharon Marr, Associate Professor of Medicine, McMaster University, Head, Division of Geriatric Medicine, Hamilton Health Sciences, St. Peter’s Hospital campus, 88 Maplewood Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario. L8M 1W9 Telephone (905) 521-2100 extension 75723. E-mail: marrs@mcmaster.ca