SPEAKER: Dr. Sandy Buchman
Dr. Sandy Buchman received his MD from McMaster University and completed his Family Medicine Residency training at the University of Toronto. He practiced comprehensive Family Medicine in Mississauga for over 21 years with special interest in Palliative Care, HIV/AIDS and Global Health - including volunteer experiences in South America and Africa. Since 2005 he has been with the Temmy Latner Centre for Palliative Care at Mount Sinai Hospital in Toronto where he is the Education Lead and a Palliative Care Physician providing home-based palliative care. He is currently Clinical Lead, QI & Primary Care Engagement in Palliative Care at Cancer Care Ontario. Prior to this he served for a number of years as the Regional Primary Care Lead for Toronto Regional Cancer Program. He is the immediate Past President of the College of Family Physicians of Canada and a Past President of the Ontario College of Family Physicians. He holds the position of Assistant Professor in the Departments of Family and Community Medicine at the University of Toronto and McMaster University.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:
1. To share what I have learned is important for Family Physicians (FPs) to know about Palliative Care in Chronic Progressive Illness (CPI)
   - That FPs are critical to improving care for patients with CPI by using a palliative care approach
   - That FPs (and all specialists) who look after patients with CPI must introduce palliative care early in the illness trajectory to improve outcomes
   - That engagement of more FPs to provide palliative care to patients with CPI cannot be accomplished without simultaneously providing the supports and resources to undertake this type of work and approach
2. To engage in dialogue with the audience about whether a palliative care approach is required in patients with CPI and how they see FPs involved in carrying out this approach to care.
